A CONVERSATION ABOUT CONTEMPORARY APPROACHES TO RESOURCING ARTS AND CULTURE

Moving from the Doris Duke Artist Award as a social proposal, this conversation will explore contemporary approaches to resourcing artistic labor in the United States and what future solutions are imaginable for our field. Curated in partnership with Ali Rosa-Salas, Executive Director of Abron's Arts Center, and facilitated by Timmhotep Aku, the discussion will consider how artists and arts organizations are engaging digital platforms, brand partnerships, investor capital, and state/federal initiatives to sustain the operations of artists workers. We will film the conversation and plan to disseminate publicly after the fact.
